

A Weekly Reading Plan to Go Deeper with Sunday Worship

One of the best practices to help us slow down and take in God's Word is to journal while we read. For some, this may sound exciting and for others it may sound like a kill joy.

But let me challenge you to stretch yourself. God wants us to be in a relationship with Him. Scripture tells us He stands at the door of our life waiting to have a conversation over a meal or at least over a cup of coffee (Revelation 3:20).

When we stop and take time to work through the life-changing stories in the Bible, God promises to reveal Himself; and because we are forgetful people, we are able to see clearer how God is changing us when we look back through the times, we wrote down moments of truth. So, start small and see where it leads.

A SOAK reading plan involves the following:

1. Scripture: have a place to start reading
2. Observation: take note of people, places and idea that interest you, surprise you, or puzzle you
3. Application: put in writing any commitments you make for what God shows you from your reading.
4. Kneel: When God speaks, we need to respond and tell him that we will submit to His Word in our life.
